You have anchored in a beautiful and secluded cove. Over time, you are joined by a number of boaters. You decide to leave but have discovered that your neighbors have set their anchors across yours. Now the anchor rodes are locked. What to do?

It's simple! Use Ultra Trip Hook to clear the offending anchor line or chain. The hook is made of 316L stainless steel, and is designed to carry the load.

Simply bring your anchor in until the trapped anchor rode is exposed. Secure your neighbor's anchor rode with the Ultra Trip Hook, and take up the load. Your anchor is free and clear of the intruding anchor line. Now, simply release the anchor rode from the hook. You are on your way, and a big problem has now become only a minor irritant.
